

Instructions for applicants for the EMQAL 2021-23 edition

Be sure to read this document carefully before you start filling in the application. The application must be completed in one sitting. You can not save your work and get back to it later. This means that you must have all the information present and ready before starting the process.

Two separate ranking lists will be prepared: Programme Country students and Partner Country students. Make sure that you apply in the correct category! Applying in the wrong category may lead to your application being rejected. Citizens of the member states of the EU/EEA/UK are prospective Programme Country students. The same applies to individuals from any other country who during the last five years have spent at least one year in the EU/EEA/UK studying or working. Everyone else are prospective Partner Country students. You may be required to prove that you belong to the category you have chosen.

You must upload PDF versions of several documents (passport, diplomas, grades transcript, language certificates, other relevant documents) when submitting your application. Make sure that you have these ready. You may need to merge some documents, as you may only upload maximum four files: One containing your passport (mandatory), one with diplomas and transcript of grades (mandatory), one containing language certificates, and one joint file for all other relevant documents. There is a size restriction of 2 MB per file.

You are required to give contact information (name, title/job description, workplace, email) of two referees. Your referees should be people who know you very well and can attest to your qualities. Preferably they should hold positions either in academia, research or industry in fields relevant for EMQAL. All referees will be contacted, and we strongly suggest that you speak to them before applying. Please be sure about their availability. Please provide only one email address per referee. Any mistake in this address will result in your application not receiving that reference, and your application will suffer as a result.

There are designated spaces for submitting information about two previous degrees. Should you only have one previous degree, you leave the second one blank. If you have more than two, you may specify this in a separate field.

A personal statement of up to 2500 characters (blanks included) is required. This is to give the Selection Committee a chance to get to know you, your aspirations, interests, experience and talents, professional, academic and personal.

Describe the skills and abilities that make you an excellent candidate for EMQAL. Describe any previous experience related to the subjects of the Master, either academic or professional. If relevant, describe your current and previous employments, positions and durations. If you are an author of scientific publications mention these and include pdf copies or a separate list of publications in the file upload section.

We recommend you to carefully prepare this text in a separate document and then proceed to copy/paste it to the Personal statement field. This is to avoid losing the text due to technical difficulties.

There is also a motivational statement of up to 2500 characters (blanks included) required. Explain why you are applying for this course. Include

- * your academic interests.
- * why you have chosen this subject
- * what interests you particularly about the course
- * link these ideas to your chosen career
- * why you are interested in studying in Europe
- * how well-prepared for studying in Europe you are
- * any personal problems (family/financial/cultural) you foresee

You need to specify your English language skills on a scale from A1 (beginner) to C2 (proficient). These categories are from the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). An explanation of the abbreviations can be found at the CEFRA website, or at the EMQAL site at http://www.emqal.org/documents\_for\_students/cefr.pdf. Read this and be honest when doing the self-assessment. Any language certificates should be uploaded with the application. We may contact those of you without a language certificate at a later stage to validate your self-assessment of the language skills. As a result of this, we may change any self-assessment you have made.

Any relevant information you want to convey, but we do not specifically ask about, may be submitted in the field Special circumstances.

The application deadline is February 12th at midnight CET. No applications will be accepted after this. This edition of EMQAL is scheduled to start in Barcelona in October 2021. This may change due to the covid-19 pandemic.
